

POSITION PAPER COMPETITION

On International Youth Day, August 12, 2023, GECCS MUN organized a profound Position Paper Competition, addressing the critical agenda of "Ensuring Youth Mental Health and Well-being." The competition aimed to analyze mental health challenges faced by young people and propose effective measures for their well-being.

Level One - Position Paper Submission: Participants submitted well-researched position papers online, showcasing their insights into youth mental health challenges and suggesting solutions.

Level Two - Presentation of Position Papers: Top performers presented their ideas live, demonstrating not only research and writing skills but also public speaking and presentation abilities.

The event successfully achieved its objective, fostering awareness and constructive dialogue on youth mental health challenges. It provided a platform for participants to showcase their research and presentation skills, contributing to the broader cause of prioritizing and addressing youth mental health and well-being.

This event stands as a testament to the dedication, intellect, and commitment to promoting positive change in the realm of youth mental health. Gratitude to all who contributed to this resounding success. Together, we've made strides in addressing critical issues and fostering a more supportive environment for young individuals.
